Michael Woods has been editor of The Sweet Science since 2007. This Brooklyn resident, married with two children, is also a frequent contributor to the Boxing Channel.

Woods was a staff writer at NY Newsday from 1999-2003, and covered sports, as well as hard news.

He currently covers boxing and mixed martial arts for ESPN The Magazine, ESPNNewYork.com and ESPN.com.

Woods, who came aboard ESPN in 2003, was named a contributing writer to ESPN The Magazine in January 2012.

The journalist was named Writer of the Year by the veterans boxing organization Ring 8 (NY) for 2013, and is a vice president in the Boxing Writers Association of America organization.

Besides doing video work for Boxing Channel, Woods has served as on-screen analyst for EPIX Sports, and done play-by-play for Universal Sports Network, partially owned by NBC.
