MANNY PACQUIAO'S REMATCH

WITH ABC'S "JIMMY KIMMEL LIVE" GARNERS RAVE REVIEWS!

Amazon.com Reorders Pacquiao's New Single "Sometimes When We Touch"
After Selling Out in 12 Hours!

HOLLYWOOD, CALIF. (April 29, 2011) -- Fighter of the Decade, eight-division world champion, and boxing's No. 1 pound for pound fighter and box office attraction Congressman MANNY "PacMan" PACQUIAO took time from training for his upcoming defense of his WBO welterweight title against three-division world champion Sugar Shane Mosley to make another boffo appearance on ABC's Jimmy Kimmel Live! on Thursday night. This was Pacquiao's fourth consecutive appearance on Jimmy Kimmel Live! in as many promotions, dating back to November 2009 when he knocked out Miguel Cotto to claim the welterweight title. That 2009 appearance also marked Pacquiao's U.S. network TV debut, which has since led to a multitude of network television and radio features, including, of CBS' 60 Minutes, ABC's Good Morning America, FOX News Channel's On The Record With Greta Van Susteren, CNN's America Morning, and NPR's Morning Edition and Weekend Edition

Pacquiao's first U.S. single, a remake of Dan Hill 1977 hit Sometimes When We Touch, sung with Dan Hill, was released on Thursday as well. It sold out within 12 hours on Amazon.com which promptly reordered more to satisfy worldwide demand. It is also available on iTunes.

Below, please find the clips from his appearance. You'll laugh. You'll cry. You'll be totally enthralled.
