Hollywood, Fla.—Hall of Fame boxing promoter Don King was joined by many of the principal fighters on Saturday's "Viva Don King II" boxing card at Seminole Hard Rock Hotel & Casino in Hollywood, Fla., for media workouts today inside Hard Rock Live, the same venue where the fights will be held.

Heavyweight fighters Tony "TNT" Grano (19-2-1, 15 KOs), from Hartford, Conn., and DaVarryl "Touch of Sleep" Williamson (27-6, 23 KOs), from Denver, both participated in today's workouts and will fight in the main event on Saturday. Grano is the No. 1-ranked NABF contender and Williamson is a former top-ranked heavyweight, and the winner will win the vacant NABF title.

"I've done over 50 rounds of sparring with five different professional heavyweights," Grano said of his training camp. "I give special thanks to WBA cruiserweight champion Guillermo Jones who came and worked with me.

"This fight with Williamson means everything to me. It's my time to shine."

Williamson is looking forward to the challenge from Grano.

"I felt like a champion during training camp in Denver," Williamson said. "I saw Grano on YouTube and checked on him with people in boxing. The good news I will not have to send out a search party looking for Grano. He'll be right there in front of me. He comes to fight."

WBC U.S. super welterweight champion Joey "Twinkle Fingers" Hernandez (21-1-1, 12 KOs), from Miami, will take on Brandon "The Business" Baue (12-6, 10 KOs), from Troy, Mo.

"I spent eight weeks training for this fight, the last three secluded at the King Training Camp just outside Cleveland," Hernandez said. "I wanted to spar with the bigger guys.

"I know if I win my promoter Don King is going to put me in even bigger fights, so I am determined to win convincingly."

Undefeated WBA No. 15-ranked lightweight Angelo "La Cobra" Santana (12-0, 9 KOs), a Cuban fighting out of Miami, will face the toughest test of his young career against former WBC Silver champion Justin "Le Voodoo" Savi (26-1, 18 KOs), from Cotonou, Benin.

"I have a new physical trainer," Santana said. "I'm stepping up in competition, so I need to perfect all of my skills.

"It's great to be trained by former Cuban Olympic coach Jorge Rubio. He splits his time between me and Guillermo Rigondeaux. He is a great coach and I feel I am improving every day."

Also appearing on the card is undefeated junior middleweight Omar "Oh!" Henry (11-0-1, 9 KOs), from Chicago. He'll be facing Walter "2 Guns" Wright (14-3, 7 KOs), from Seattle, Wash.

"This is my first 10-rounder, on a big Don King-promoted card," Henry said after training in San Jose for this fight.

"I want to show everyone my skills. I feel real strong. My motivation is to look impressive."

Raw Quotes

Tony Grano (NABF No. 1-ranked heavyweight): “I feel great. My training camp has been great. I’ve done over 50 rounds of sparring with five different professional heavyweights. I give special thanks to WBA cruiserweight champion Guillermo Jones who came and worked with me.

This fight with Williamson means everything to me. It’s my time to shine.”

DaVarryl Williamson (Former world No. 1 heavyweight):“I felt like a champion during training camp in Denver. My preparation changed as I was supposed to fight in Switzerland on July 7, but this fight came up so I took it.

“I saw Grano on You Tube and checked on him with people in boxing. The good news I will not have to send out a search party looking for Grano. He’ll be right there in front of me. He comes to fight.”

Joey Hernandez (WBC U.S. super welterweight champion, fighting on Brandon Baue): “I spent eight weeks training for this fight, the last three secluded at the King Training Camp just outside Cleveland. I wanted to spar with the bigger guys.

“I know if I win my promoter Don King is going to put me in even bigger fights, so I am determined to win convincingly.”
