HOUSTON WE HAVE A TOP-20 HIT!

"Sometimes When We Touch," the Dan Hill-penned (@officialdanhill) ballad, sung by the very sensitive Fighter of the Decade, Congressman Manny Pacquiao (@MannyPacquiao), cracks the Top-20 on the secondary Adult Contemporary Chart, blasting up from No. 25 to No. 19, over the past week! It remains the No. 3 most-added songs on radio playlists.

The perfect gift for your special someone and as a hostess gift for upcoming July 4 parties.

It's Available on iTunes, Amazon.com, and World-Famous Freddie Roach's music-on-hold. www.MannySings.com (@http://bit.ly/eF2xuW).

Wow I head about "Sometimes when we touch" from a non-boxing website... Pacs really burnin' up the charts... haven't heard it yet... but if the hype continues.. I may not be able to resist.

the Roast says:

If Pac can sing anybody can. My offer still stands. The Roast will duet with England Dan or John Ford Coley on "I'd Really Love to See You Tonight." One of those guys is dead so I will sing with the live one, of course. Lets do it live dude.

Radam G says:

Wow! I wonder if the Roast can really get jiggy with it. Put your best on Youtube, the Roast. I wanna see you if your are worth da cost. Or do you just like to boast? Holla!

the Roast says:

I'll get right on that Radam. Just as soon as you reveal your secret identity, Fists Rapido.

Radam G says:

Hehehehehehe! Holla!
