A happy Golovkin was pleased with his performance and looked towards a WBA enforced mandatory showdown with WBA "Super" Middleweight Champion Felix Sturm in addition to his plans for fighting in the United States.

"We had a great camp in Big Bear and my punches felt strong early on. I knew Fuchigami was hurt after the first knockdown so I let my hands go in the second round. Abel (trainer Abel Sanchez) and I worked on staying patient and studying my opponent and it worked tonight," said Golovkin.

"I want to fight Sturm finally and then later this year I would like to fight in the United States, preferably at Madison Square Garden in New York City. I was at Sergio Martinez's fight there in March of this year and would be very interested in fighting him there."

Tom Loeffler of K2 Promotions echoed the plans for Golovkin, "We're very happy with the victory tonight over Fuchigami, he was the best middleweight from Japan and one of the few fighters willing to face Gennady."

"Our immediate plan is to face Sturm and then have Gennady fight in America. Madison Square Garden has shown great interest in having his US debut there and we have had good discussions with HBO, Showtime and EPIX about broadcasting his fights."

"Gennady is truly fearless, he'll fight any champion from 154 to 168, anywhere in the world.
