

Cunningham Says He Will Stay Smart, Outbox Fury

Written by The Sweet Science
Thursday, 04 April 2013 19:22

am Holds Media Workout In Preparation For Tyson Fury

Steve Cunningham

Photo Credits: Wendy Benedict

Cunningham Says He Will Stay Smart, Outbox Fury

Written by The Sweet Science
Thursday, 04 April 2013 19:22

PHILADELPHIA - Steve "USS" Cunningham held an open media workout at the Rock Ministries Gym in Philadelphia. With a little more than two weeks remaining until the fight, Cunningham, 25-2, 12 KOs, appeared confident, conditioned, and ready to fight Irish import Tyson Fury, 20-0, 14 KOs, a 6' 9" rising star of the heavyweight division. Cunningham went through a light workout for the press before speaking about the upcoming nationally televised fight at The Theater at Madison Square Garden scheduled for Saturday afternoon April 20th. The Fury - Cunningham battle will be the main event of the 4PM ET broadcast on NBC.

Cunningham Says He Will Stay Smart, Outbox Fury

Written by The Sweet Science
Thursday, 04 April 2013 19:22

Steve Cunningham

Photo credits:

phillyboxinghistory.com

"He wants to get under my skin with his antics, imitating Ali, doing all these tricks," Cunningham said of Fury's trash talking press conference performance from last month. "He wants me to just come in and punch him in the mouth, but I will stick to the game plan and not get out of control. It's all about the game plan."

Steve Cunningham

Photo Credits:

phillyboxinghistory.com

"We're getting ready for the best Tyson Fury that the world has ever seen," Cunningham continued. "He can say what he wants to say. It's only going to make him look bad when he gets beaten by a supposed light heavyweight."

Cunningham Says He Will Stay Smart, Outbox Fury

Written by The Sweet Science
Thursday, 04 April 2013 19:22

Cunningham says he will stay smart and outbox Fury, Cunningham said.

