"I want to send my deepest condolences and all of my sympathy to the people of Buenos Aires. What has happened there is terrible," said Martinez.

In an attempt to lend a helping hand, Martinez, along with the organizers of the April 27 event, will be donating $100,000 to Caritas La Plata.

"Along with the organizers of my fight, we have decided to donate $100,000 to Caritas La Plata to help assist the families that were affected by this tragedy. Do not stand in front of your TV watching and regretting what has happened. Stand up and donate what you can."

Class Act. I've met Martinez on several occasions and it's hard not to love this guy. I would imagine that his purses haven't been so large, where giving away six figures at a time doesn't affect him. Great heart.
