On Saturday, May 4, boxing's biggest star Floyd Mayweather defeated four-division World Champion Robert Guerrero via 12-round unanimous decision on SHOWTIME PPV®. Now, ALL ACCESS: MAYWEATHER vs. GUERRERO Epilogue takes viewers inside the drama surrounding this year's biggest fight to date.

Like no other show on television, ALL ACCESS Epilogue documents the intensity of fight week preparations, takes viewers inside the ropes on fight night, and into the minds of the victor and the defeated in the subtle, uncelebrated aftermath of world championship prizefighting.

ALL ACCESS: MAYWEATHER vs. GUERRERO Epilogue premieres Saturday, May 18 at 9 p.m. ET/PT on SHOWTIME immediately followed by the live SHOWTIME CHAMPIONSHIP BOXING event headlined by Lamont Peterson vs. Lucas Matthyse.

Wow! Showtime is milking every avenue available to find some loot. Next thing that you will know, Showtime will be broadcasting straight-up from the butthole some of Money May's poot.

Already NOW! ENOUGH! It is time to fade to black with the Money May-Cali [humbug] Ghost jive. I saw a better fight when this drunk-arse hobo ran into a beehive. And the oddity of the whole thing, is that the hobo tired out the bees. And won by split decision. Hobo dude was cussing out the bees and talkin' about their queen bee being gay. The the bee-bitten hobo dude hollered that he'd fudged every bees in America because they messed with him when he was getting on his drinkee-drink swirl. I just told the dude to go on with his superbad self.

But yall know me. I'm down with O-P-P! Yanks' bees have gotten weak -- turned into a bunch of straight-up bytch bees. Maybe it is the chemicals in the air; maybe it is the weak-arse U.S. economy or something. But WTF! Hehehehe! Somebody need to call Capt'n American. BTW, bees are disappearing on the mainland of the USA. Whaddup wif dat? Holla!
