, was a "knockout success," according to

Stephen Espinoza

"We are thrilled with the numbers from Saturday's event," said Espinoza. "March 8 was the first time Canelo Alvarez headlined his own pay per view, and he decisively proved that he was ready to carry a pay per view card. These results are especially impressive in comparison to the pay per view performances of other boxing events over the past few months. "The fans have spoken," said Richard Schaefer, CEO of Golden Boy Promotions. "Canelo is without a doubt the brightest young star in the sport today. He's been a huge star in Mexico for quite some time. Now there is no denying that he is a star in the United States as well. We're already in discussions with Canelo to find the next opportunity to bring another exciting event to boxing fans worldwide."

The Canelo vs. Angulo slugfest will premiere on SHOWTIME this Saturday, March 15, and open the live SHOWTIME CHAMPIONSHIP BOXING doubleheader at 9 p.m. ET/6 p.m. PT from Bayamon, Puerto Rico. ### The Shadow says:

Well let these jokers go build a fan base. Canelo might throw them a bone. He's fighting for a title next time out, he might wreck Kirkland, may just make Ishe Smith cry or he's gonna get an easy middleweight title for another easy $5m. Canelo is a promoter's wet dream.

Radam G says:

Showtime is full of _____! And like always are straight-up using an optical illusion and mass confusion and cooking the books and monkey jive. Wow! Just counts the PPVs of California Baja and other parts of Mexico.

When Da Manny beat down Big Foot; HBO, TR and da Bobfather must indeed count the PPVs of Canada, the Carribeans, the Middle East, and all of the Pacific Rim.

BTW, B-Sug, The Texas Crazy Chick Ann "The Mermaid" Wolfe and the Cowboy Mandingo Super Warrior James Kirkland would run the red-hype outta dat squared jungle. Holla!

Don't let this save-face optical illusion throw you off. For Canelo-Money May, the PPV price was $80. For Angulo-Canelo, the price was $40. Do the math. "A knockout success" where the sun doesn't shine! And that is my high-yellow-colored brown, little, flat ARSE. Hehehe!

_____ and _____! Holla!

Radam G says:

@The Shadow, too, that Texan crazy two -- trainer and fighter -- would fudge Team Canelo up. Canelo's Papa Warbucks -- billionaire Carlos Slim -- would have to pay all the king's bone-and-skin doctors and all the king's shrinks to put Canelo together again. Holla!
