Nonito "The Filipino Flash" Donaire (29-1, 18 KOs) of San Leandro, Cal. takes on Toshiaki Nishioka (39-4-3, 24 KOs) of Hyogo, Japan in a 12-round junior featherweight title fight. Undefeated for more than a decade, and among the top pound-for-pound fighters in the world, Donaire is making his fifth appearance on HBO. In Feb. 2011, he scored perhaps his most memorable victory to date, delivering a second-round knockout that ended bantamweight champ Fernando Montiel's 25-bout winning streak and was named 2011's knockout of the year. Known for his incredible quickness, Donaire is fresh off a unanimous decision victory over Jeffrey Mathebula at The Home Depot Center in July, and returns to the southern California venue to defend his belt.

The top-ranked boxer from Japan, Nishioka has gone more than eight years since his last defeat, when he fought as a bantamweight. He subsequently moved up in weight to junior featherweight, where he's currently undefeated and holds a title. Riding a 16-fight winning streak, Nishioka most recently defeated two-division titleholder Rafael Marquez.

Putting two undefeated records on the line, the opening bout is a scheduled ten-round, junior welterweight showdown featuring Brandon Rios (30-0-1, 21 KOs) of Oxnard, Cal. and Mike Alvarado (33-0, 23 KOs) of Denver. After battling with his weight in recent bouts, and scoring a controversial split-decision victory over Richard Abril in April, the fan-friendly, high-energy Rios is making his debut in the 140-pound division. Alvarado dispatched Mauricio Herrera in April in a thrilling bout many have called a candidate for fight of the year, and will look to use his slight height and reach advantages, as well as his junior welterweight experience, to upset Rios. This fight has become one of the most anticipated matchups of the 2012 boxing season.
