On Tuesday Gary Hyde of Nowhere2Hyde Management signed 18 year old Issac Dogboe, who is a 2012 Olympian from Ghana. Isaac, who was just 17 when he competed in the London Olympics, also won a silver medal at the African Olympic Games.

He also won the highly regarded English ABA title in April.

"I have no doubt that this extremely talented young fighter will eventually be crowned 122 pound world champion," Hyde said. "He has so much power and ability for a young kid and he is a delightful young man full of charisma. Isaac will make his professional debut in the United States in October where his father Paul will continue to train him along with strength and conditioning coach DJ Monatnocordoba'.
