

"This fight is going to be about Floyd stepping forward, Mayweathering the storm, while he gradually eats away at Cotto's self-confidence, constitution and defence like a malignant cancer, devouring the fighter internally, from the inside out... until only the husk remains. When Cotto has finally exhausted whatever his plan C and D is... and no other strategies remain to be tried... only the empty shell of a once proud fighter will remain." --Brown Sugar offers his take on what will happen on May 5
